Summary

I am willing to engage in economic research as a job for a lifetime. This requires me to study further at a prestigious university as a doctoral student to qualify myself for it. I am currently in the application season and enrolling in a graduate program or predoctoral researcher position is my short-term goal.

Currently, my interests mainly lie in labor and public economics and I am willing to explore it in both theoretical and empirical ways. To achieve the above goals, I am still actively acquiring the fundamental knowledge and skills. ([This is a resume with a limit of two pages. Working Paper

- Taxpayer Status and Monopoly Markup in Vertical Industrial Structure (the preliminary)
 - * This is a theoretical topic that focuses on optimal VAT (value-added-tax) system design and we hope to finish the initial version before 2025 winter. (Have reported in conferences at Peking University, SUFE etc.)
 - * Ideally, value-added tax is neutral, but in reality, many small-scale companies do not have the qualifications to issue invoices, which can make VAT non neutral in this production network.
 - * The model is designed to address the issue of tax distortion between upstream and downstream enterprises in a vertical industrial structure, especially in monopolistic markets.
- How does Digital Finance impact the level of Government Budget Management: Evidence from Financial Budget Management Integrated System.
 - * It is an empirical paper focused on new fiscal reform issues in China. Currently, the fiscal data is based on provincial governments and we are still collecting the city-level data from 2016-2024 which is very laborious.
